A DEALER'S GUIDE TO WINNING SMARTPHONE SHOPPERS

INSIGHTS

SHOPPERS HAVE ENTERED THE MOBILE FAST LANE

Smart mobile devices have changed the game by putting an infinite amount of information in the palm of our hands and giving us the power to directly act on that information. As 74% of all U.S. mobile phone users now own or use a smartphone¹, we live in a world where easy access to information anywhere and at any time is the new normal.

So what about car shoppers?

Read on to learn more about mobile's impact, and what you can do to make sure you're reaching mobile car shoppers at the most critical moments.

IF YOUR MARKETING'S NOT MOBILE YOU ARE FALLING BEHIND

Smartphones are now an integral part of consumers' lives, and also a vital touch point in their car-buying journey. If you're not putting mobile first in your marketing, you are out of synch with today's shoppers.

MOBILE TRENDS IN AUTOMOTIVE SHOPPING

J.D. POWER REPORTS THAT U.S. VEHICLE SHOPPERS USING AN AUTOMOTIVE WEBSITE OR APP ON A SMARTPHONE GREW BY A STAGGERING 73% BETWEEN 2012 AND 2013.⁴

A recent study from Placed, Inc. confirms this trend:

59% *USED THEIR SMARTPHONE TO RESEARCH DEALERSHIPS AND/OR VEHICLES PRIOR TO MAKING A DEALERSHIP VISIT*⁵

25% *OF SHOPPERS USED ONLY THEIR SMARTPHONE TO CONDUCT RESEARCH PRIOR TO VISITING THE DEALERSHIP*⁵

63% *OF AUTO SHOPPERS USED THEIR MOBILE DEVICE TO RESEARCH AND SHOP WHILE AT A DEALERSHIP*⁵

PUTTING MOBILE IN YOUR MARKETING MIX

Entering the mobile marketplace can no longer be put off or written off as unnecessary.

As smartphone and tablet adoption skyrockets, it is clear that mobile marketing is quickly becoming an essential tool for creating dealership awareness and increasing sales.

The key is understanding how to reach this new generation of car shoppers.

..... When planning media, be sure to first put your marketing dollars in mobile media, where consumers are spending time, actively seeking information and most open to influence. Just as you followed suit with ad dollars when consumers went online, it's now time to do the same with mobile.

..... It's no longer sufficient to just be online. To most efficiently and effectively reach today's shoppers, look to invest in digital media that reach shoppers across screens and provide unique opportunities to influence at critical moments when shoppers turn to their mobile device to do additional research.

*A recent study by Placed, Inc. found that in crucial moments on the lot, shoppers are most likely to turn to third-party websites. The top four third-party, in-market sites were used by 56% of on-the-lot mobile shoppers, far surpassing use of manufacturer or dealer sites.⁵

MOBILE SHOPPERS ARE A CRUCIAL AUDIENCE

Mobile technology empowers consumers like never before. While you might assume that you do not need to market specifically to this growing segment, there is good reason to ensure that your advertising reaches shoppers across digital platforms, including their mobile devices.

Unique Audience:

25% used only their smartphone to conduct research prior to visiting a dealership.⁵

Multi-Channel Marketing:

Mobile gives you a means to reinforce messaging across channels to digital shoppers. 51% of shoppers who used a smartphone also used a desktop or laptop.⁵

Open to Influence:

Mobile shoppers are open to influence. More than half of shoppers who used their smartphone for research on a dealer lot visited additional dealerships as a result of information found on their device. And advertising played a big role. 33% were lured by digital ads.⁵

QUESTIONS TO ASK WHEN SELECTING MOBILE MEDIA PARTNERS

How large is the mobile audience?

What opportunities does the marketing platform give you to stand out with mobile shoppers?

Does it provide you with a strong cross-platform presence?

Can it help you build consideration or drive conversion with on-the-lot shoppers?

Does it provide a good mobile shopping experience and is it easy to use from a mobile device?

Is the marketing platform optimized for the behaviors of mobile shoppers?

Does it offer you unique products to reach mobile shoppers?

TURN MOBILE TRAFFIC INTO SALES

When it comes to influencing mobile shoppers, reaching them with a strong mobile marketing presence on third-party sites is just the start. You also need to be ready to convert the traffic your marketing efforts will generate. A winning mobile website and a solid response process will keep you in consideration and working toward a sale.

YOUR MOBILE SITE

Mobile shoppers have high expectations, and more than 40% of smartphone and tablet users say they will never return to a site if it is not mobile-friendly.⁸ Even if your website developer says your site has been fully optimized, take time to test and test again, or you could be wasting valuable marketing dollars bouncing shoppers who are not able to quickly and easily find the information they need.

- ✓ Focus on your mobile site first. Apps play an important role in the mobile mix, but your mobile website has greater reach and must be primed to convert mobile traffic from third-party marketing partners and search engines.
- ✓ Prioritize content that is most important to mobile shoppers.
- ✓ Be consistent. Special offers, inventory and other information found on third-party sites should be readily available and consistently communicated on your mobile website.
- ✓ Check links in your mobile advertising to make sure they are not broken.
- ✓ Tag your mobile site to track and measure mobile activity.
- ✓ Make it easy to find your store. Prominently place phone numbers, location, hours and directions.

RESPONDING TO MOBILE SHOPPERS

Just as with the traditional internet shoppers, your response to mobile shoppers can make or break the deal.

- ✓ Speed wins. While mobile shoppers are en route or at a dealership actively comparing pricing and inventory, response time is even more critical.
- ✓ Sharpen your phone skills. Easy click-to-call options from mobile devices mean shoppers will more frequently call than email. Brush up on phone skill basics to convert phone-calls and be sure numbers are directed to the right person.
- ✓ Take email mobile. Whether a shopper sends you an email from a PC or their smartphone, it is safe to assume your response will be read on a mobile device. Design emails to be easily read across devices and frequently test to see what your shoppers experience.

THE MOBILE SHOPPER STAYS CONNECTED, EVEN IN YOUR SHOWROOM

SHOWROOMING [shoh-room-ing]

verb

Showrooming is the practice of examining merchandise in a retail store without purchasing it, then shopping online to find a better deal for the same item.

Once a shopper has walked on your lot, do not assume your sales staff is the only influence. And while automotive shoppers must visit another store to make a final transaction, with 63% of shoppers consulting mobile on the lot, the concept of showrooming is very real.⁵

Today's shoppers come connected with a wealth of information at their fingertips, and are frequently shopping your competitors' inventory, even while standing in your showroom.

In fact, a recent study from Placed, Inc. found that among those who used mobile to access automotive content while at a dealership, 52% visited an additional dealership as a direct result of information they found on their smartphones.⁵ They were 72% more likely to visit another dealer than those who did not use mobile on the lot.⁵

CREATE A SEAMLESS EXPERIENCE ONLINE, ON MOBILE AND IN THE SHOWROOM

While it can be daunting to know your shoppers are actively comparing you to your toughest competitor directly from the comfort of your showroom, by embracing mobile behavior and establishing a mobile-friendly showroom experience, you can minimize the risk mobile shoppers will abandon your store for a more compelling offer.

A mobile optimized showroom allows you to provide better service and separate yourself from the competition.

These simple tips will help you overcome the impact of showrooming and increase floor-traffic conversion.

Embrace Transparency

- Provide accurate and open information on the lot, that matches listings online and on your mobile website.
- Offer shoppers Wi-Fi in your dealership to empower them with access to pricing and reviews in your store.

Outfit Your Sales Staff To Go Mobile

- Enable your sales force with tablets to demonstrate product features, help shoppers compare options and calculate payments.
- Encourage staff to go online with shoppers to compare pricing and validate information that prepares them for purchase.

Ensure Consistent Inventory

- Confirm your online presence matches what shoppers are hearing from your sales staff on the floor. If shoppers see inventory in the palm of their hand is not on the lot, or prices do not match, they may lose trust and cause you to lose the sale.

THE MOBILE PRO'S CHECKLIST

The automotive sales environment is increasingly complex, and the influx of mobile shoppers isn't making it any easier. To navigate this rapid shift in consumer behavior and reach shoppers at the most critical points, it's time for you to go mobile too. Get a jump on your competition with these simple steps that put you on the path to becoming a mobile pro.

TAKE YOUR MARKETING MOBILE: Don't wait to invest in mobile marketing or you'll lose your first-mover advantage. The time is now to reach mobile shoppers.

- ✓ Make sure paid inventory listings are optimized for mobile.
- ✓ Look for opportunities to reach shoppers across screens – desktop, tablet and smartphone.
- ✓ Take your website mobile and be sure all paid ads click-through to a mobile ready landing page, or you're wasting dollars.
- ✓ Have a presence on sites that reach shoppers during critical points of consideration on the lot.

STAND OUT WITH MOBILE SHOPPERS: Know what content catches the eye of mobile shoppers to increase consideration and conversion.

- ✓ Use Special Offers to communicate incentives and deals that can lure price savvy mobile shoppers to your lot.
- ✓ Get your reputation up to speed. Mobile shoppers actively seek reviews, and a quality rating can set you apart.
- ✓ Prominently promote important information, such as address, phone numbers and hours of service. Sometimes mobile shoppers are simply searching for your store.

GIVE YOUR SHOWROOM A MOBILE TUNE-UP: Go mobile with your shoppers on the lot and you'll reap the rewards.

- ✓ Give shoppers a consistent experience by aligning your in-store pitch and offers with digital information they are finding on their phones.
- ✓ Teach your sales staff about mobile shopping behavior.
- ✓ Provide free Wi-Fi in the showroom and on your lot.
- ✓ Use tablets to engage shoppers in the sales process and help them compare options.
